

Common and Creative Excuses for Positive Results

- I was honest last time I was positive, why would I deny it this time.
- I don't know why, I haven't used.
- It was second hand smoke in a car.
- I'm fat so the THC stays longer in my system.
- Someone must have put the drugs in my food without me knowing.
- I had a few beer brats at a party this weekend.
- I didn't know what was in the cigarette I was given.
- My roommate and I were both making lunch and I must have picked theirs up on accident.
- I used a cutting board that someone used for snorting cocaine on.
- I walked into a room of people that were smoking, but I walked right out immediately.
- My allergies were acting up so I used my friend's nose spray and did not know they kept their drugs in there.
- I had to get up in the middle of the night to get my wife her pills and I must have still been half asleep and took the pills on accident when I was walking up the stairs.
- I tested positive for ETG because my girlfriend cooked dinner and used wine.
- I didn't use. Your lab messed up. Someone must have tampered with my sample.
- I didn't know my coworkers put meth in the coffee and I drank it.

- I was watching a movie with my son and we were eating popcorn. A piece fell in the chair and I reached down and put it in my mouth. I must have dropped a piece of crack down there back when I was using and thought it was the popcorn.
- My girlfriend was mad at me and put it in my food to make me fail my drug test so I would get in trouble.
- My energy drink tested me positive for Meth.
- I have slow metabolism. I know it can take months for cocaine to leave my body.
- I was moving and found some cocaine in a drawer. I threw it in the trash. Just touching it made me test positive.
